14 Oct 2009

European Commission settled its investigation with no finding of an infringement of competition law by IACS.

Commitments were made regarding Criteria for IACS Membership, procedures for non-IACS classification society participation in the development of IACS Resolutions (defined); availability of Resolutions and their backgrounds; and the establishment of an Independent Appeal Board.

The QSCS was amended such that audits and assessment of compliance with the QSCS will be carried out by independent external Accredited Certification Body or Bodies, rather than IACS's own auditors, and without any involvement of IACS' Council. It was also modified so that its requirements could be applied equally by IACS Members and non-IACS Class Societies, including those that do not wish to apply for IACS Membership.

The investigation caused very heavy expenditure on legal counsel and management resources and serious delays to some important IACS work.
